September 9, 2012 (New York, NY) – The Global Movement and Art Studio World’s healing through the arts projects presents “Pause II Press Play >” an Art, Film & Spoken Word Collaborative - a three- day exhibition at Columbia University | Barnard Hillel’s The Kraft Center.

Curated by L-M-N-T.com Gallery Miami, the exhibition will feature artists Gino Tozzi, Ashley Cumberland, Billie Grace Lynn, Rachel Hughes, and Kevin Vancio. A centerpiece of this exhibit is “The Pause Towers” - a twin towers plexiglass sculpture filled with prescription bottles and medical packaging from ten years of prescription based treatments from health survivors of the World Trade Center illnesses.

The schedule for the three day event includes films, holistic artists and speakers, holistic consultant Ama Lia Wai Ching Lee, Singer Nitzan Sitzler, and a number of guest speakers who are experts in the fields of holistic approaches to health, healing, creativity and integrative arts and education.

Pause II Press Play Director Rachel Hughes says, "It's eleven years since the horrific events of 9/11 and our society has been on "pause" too long. "It's time to press "Play" Our project focuses on healing through the arts and how we can move forward to release the grief from 9/11 and heal our society."

On the opening night, September 9, at 8 pm, California filmmaker Penny Little will be present for the premier of her new film "9/11Dust: A Healing Journey". The film features US Congressman Jerrold Nadler, Daily News reporter Juan Gonzales, EPA whistleblower Cate Jenkins, Susanne Mattei, numerous doctors and 9/11 first responders including John Feal of the Feal Good Foundation. Little's 2006 film "9/11 Dust and Deceit" was an examination off health problems suffered by first responders, volunteers, workers exposed to the toxic dust.

Little says, "This followup film is about solutions and healing. I'm asking how those directly affected with 9/11 related illnesses, and all of us still grieving, can fully heal from 9 /11"

A press conference will be held Tuesday, September 11, at 1 pm at the Kraft Center, with event organizers, filmmaker Penny Little, and 9/11 first responders from her film.

The Global Movement's mission is "to enlighten the public, promoting new ideas and solutions from a plethora of sources and inspiration, towards a healthier, more sustainable society, for new ways of greatness, which can be achieved."

Art Studio World's mission is to "provide Creative-Holistic Art Integration programs to Youth & Families, and to empower young minds by providing safe location where youth are inspired and guided by artists, teachers, professionals, and mentors who support the education and career development through the integration of creative holistic arts."
